sparkling

we prefer our sparkling wines to be made in the méthode traditionnelle. the fizz is produced through secondary fermentation in the bottle, just as in champagne. this produces bubbles which are fine, light and persistent.

we prefer to think of sparkling wine as an everyday pleasure. we don't feel the need to stock champagne, with its often-hefty price tag. this stuff is just as good.

marcillac, les vigneron du vallon, natural wines made with fer servadou, a rare varietal particular to marcillac. the bright red soil of the region is rich with volcanic minerals. produced in a central winery by a cooperative of growers, harvested by hand, with minimal intervention and high environmental standards. this is the first wine we imported directly from the winemaker, and will always hold a special place in our hearts.
